Kelli S. Hopkins

Ms. Hopkins is Vice President and Manager of Professional Services with Lexington-based Conservation Partners, LLC, where her main focus is to bridge the gap between conservation professionals by encouraging better communication to accomplish a smooth and expeditious donation. She has an A.A. in Business Management from Clark County Community College and is currently working on her B.S. in biology.

Robert B. Lambeth, Jr.

Mr. Lambeth is President of the Council of Independent Colleges in Virginia, and a practicing attorney in Bedford. He is a past chairman of the Virginia Outdoors Foundation, past president of Preservation Alliance of Virginia, and is former legislative counsel to the Piedmont Environmental Council. Mr. Lambeth received a B.A. in political science from Randolph-Macon College and his law degree from the University of Richmond.

Stephen W. Lemon

Mr. Lemon is Principal with Martin, Hopkins, and Lemon, PC, in Roanoke. He is a member of the advisory council of the Western Virginia Land Trust. He obtained his bachelor's degree in economics from Washington & Lee University and his law degree from Vanderbilt University. Mr. Lemon's practice concentrates in the areas of trust and estates and real estate work with a special emphasis in conservation easements.

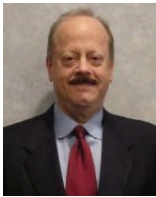

Samuel B. Long, MAI, SRA

Mr. Long is President of Miller, Long & Associates, Inc., in Roanoke. He is a Certified General Real Estate Appraiser by the Commonwealth of Virginia. He holds a B.S. in management from Virginia Tech.

Conservation easements—permanent legal agreements that limit development on parcels of land—are increasingly popular tools for Virginia landowners. As a local attorney or CPA, you owe it to your clients to understand the ins and outs of these complex agreements. Whether your clients are “land rich and cash poor” farmers or wealthy investors, landowners who wish to preserve their land while still capturing financial benefit from it should consider a conservation easement.

F. Fulton Galer, CPA

Mr. Galer is a partner with McLeod & Company in Roanoke. He specializes in the areas of corporate and individual taxation. He received his B.S. from Columbus State University and a Master of Accountancy from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

David A. Hurt

Mr. Hurt is Easement Director with Lexington-based Conservation Partners, LLC, where he leads efforts to assist landowners throughout the entire conservation easement process. He received a B.A. in English from Roanoke College. His family has donated conservation easements on two properties in Franklin Co.

Roger B. Holnback

Mr. Holnback has been Executive Director of the Western Virginia Land Trust since 2001. Prior to coming to WVLT, he was Southern Regional Administrator for the Appalachian Trail Conference Land Trust. He has a B.A. in economics and political science from the University of Pittsburgh.
